The University is still without a permanent leader for its administration, the administration, one month after GW’s sex assault prevention coordinator, shut down.

Sexual assault offices wait for permanent leader

GW’s former deputy Title IX coordinator, who was supposed to be in the lead for GW’s sexual assault office, left last fall. Dimovitz said SASA has worked on rebranding GW’s marketing materials. When officials worked to secure GW’s logo in 2011, they walked the grounds of Mount Vernon and were inspired by the bust of the first president.

The campaign, called “Making History,” harkens back to the University’s roots in fundraising History,” harkens back to the University’s roots in fundraising.
VENUE CHANGES MADE TO J STREET
J Street will undergo its first venue changes in two years this semester, as the University replaces two Asian eateries with traditional American fare.

ONLINE
ON GWWATCHET.COM

UNIVERSITY DISCOURAGES ONLINE TEXTBOOK DEALS
The University urged faculty to tell students to buy textbooks from the campus bookstore instead of cheaper websites like Amazon this month.

CAPTAIN COOKIE BEGINS NEW ERA
As Captain Cooke and the Milkman prepares to open, owner Kirk Francis thinks GW’s sweet tooth will cover the costs of a permanent shop.

HARASSMENT
Off-campus
8/13/14 – 4:15 to 4:35 p.m.
Case closed
A staff member reported several harassing phone calls concerning the department she worked for. She noted the caller was male, but she was not able to identify him.

UNLAWFUL ENTRY
Mitchell Hall 7-Eleven
8/14/14 – 4:35 p.m.
Case closed
UPD responded to reports of a suspect harassing customers in the Mitchell Hall 7-Eleven. Upon arrival, UPD noted that the suspect had previously been banned from campus.

DESTRUCTION
University Mall
8/14/14 – Time unknown
Case closed
UPD noticed graffiti on a decorative pillar in the University Mall.

CRIME LOG

ERICA CHRISTIAN | PHOTO EDITOR
Alexandria, Va. residents Jake Akins, Mim English, Chris Armstrong, Olivia Trope Boyle, Alice English and Brent Boyle pour buckets of ice water over their heads to complete the Ice Bucket Challenge in support of ALS awareness. ALS, also known as Lou Gehrig’s disease, is a progressive neurodegenerative disease. They also said they would donate to the ALS Association.

“Worth quoting”

1. UNIVERSITY DISCOURAGES ONLINE TEXTBOOK DEALS

“...the University urged faculty to tell students to buy textbooks from the campus bookstore instead of cheaper websites like Amazon this month.”

5. MAYA WEINSTEIN, director of policy and outreach for Students Against Sexual Assault, on GW’s vacant deputy Title IX coordinator position.

Wednesday, Aug. 27

Alexandra Yu, residents Jake Akins, Mim English, Chris Armstrong, Olivia Trope Boyle, Alice English and Brent Boyle pour buckets of ice water over their heads to complete the Ice Bucket Challenge in support of ALS awareness. ALS, also known as Lou Gehrig’s disease, is a progressive neurodegenerative disease. They also said they would donate to the ALS Association.

“There’s no Title IX coordinator and that’s been since November. That’s bad. You can’t move forward if you don’t have someone in the position.”

5. MAYA WEINSTEIN, director of policy and outreach for Students Against Sexual Assault, on GW’s vacant deputy Title IX coordinator position.

Wednesday, Aug. 27

Campus can be an intimidating time for incoming freshmen. We asked the GW community for their advice.

Monday, Aug. 25

ERICA CHRISTIAN | PHOTO EDITOR
Alexandria, Va. residents Jake Akins, Mim English, Chris Armstrong, Olivia Trope Boyle, Alice English and Brent Boyle pour buckets of ice water over their heads to complete the Ice Bucket Challenge in support of ALS awareness. ALS, also known as Lou Gehrig’s disease, is a progressive neurodegenerative disease. They also said they would donate to the ALS Association.

“There’s no Title IX coordinator and that’s been since November. That’s bad. You can’t move forward if you don’t have someone in the position.”

5. MAYA WEINSTEIN, director of policy and outreach for Students Against Sexual Assault, on GW’s vacant deputy Title IX coordinator position.

Wednesday, Aug. 27

Campus can be an intimidating time for incoming freshmen. We asked the GW community for their advice.

Monday, Aug. 25

ERICA CHRISTIAN | PHOTO EDITOR
Alexandria, Va. residents Jake Akins, Mim English, Chris Armstrong, Olivia Trope Boyle, Alice English and Brent Boyle pour buckets of ice water over their heads to complete the Ice Bucket Challenge in support of ALS awareness. ALS, also known as Lou Gehrig’s disease, is a progressive neurodegenerative disease. They also said they would donate to the ALS Association.

“There’s no Title IX coordinator and that’s been since November. That’s bad. You can’t move forward if you don’t have someone in the position.”

5. MAYA WEINSTEIN, director of policy and outreach for Students Against Sexual Assault, on GW’s vacant deputy Title IX coordinator position.

Wednesday, Aug. 27

Campus can be an intimidating time for incoming freshmen. We asked the GW community for their advice.

Monday, Aug. 25

ERICA CHRISTIAN | PHOTO EDITOR
Alexandria, Va. residents Jake Akins, Mim English, Chris Armstrong, Olivia Trope Boyle, Alice English and Brent Boyle pour buckets of ice water over their heads to complete the Ice Bucket Challenge in support of ALS awareness. ALS, also known as Lou Gehrig’s disease, is a progressive neurodegenerative disease. They also said they would donate to the ALS Association.

“There’s no Title IX coordinator and that’s been since November. That’s bad. You can’t move forward if you don’t have someone in the position.”

5. MAYA WEINSTEIN, director of policy and outreach for Students Against Sexual Assault, on GW’s vacant deputy Title IX coordinator position.

Wednesday, Aug. 27

Campus can be an intimidating time for incoming freshmen. We asked the GW community for their advice.

Monday, Aug. 25

ERICA CHRISTIAN | PHOTO EDITOR
Alexandria, Va. residents Jake Akins, Mim English, Chris Armstrong, Olivia Trope Boyle, Alice English and Brent Boyle pour buckets of ice water over their heads to complete the Ice Bucket Challenge in support of ALS awareness. ALS, also known as Lou Gehrig’s disease, is a progressive neurodegenerative disease. They also said they would donate to the ALS Association.

“There’s no Title IX coordinator and that’s been since November. That’s bad. You can’t move forward if you don’t have someone in the position.”

5. MAYA WEINSTEIN, director of policy and outreach for Students Against Sexual Assault, on GW’s vacant deputy Title IX coordinator position.

Wednesday, Aug. 27

Campus can be an intimidating time for incoming freshmen. We asked the GW community for their advice.

Monday, Aug. 25

ERICA CHRISTIAN | PHOTO EDITOR
Alexandria, Va. residents Jake Akins, Mim English, Chris Armstrong, Olivia Trope Boyle, Alice English and Brent Boyle pour buckets of ice water over their heads to complete the Ice Bucket Challenge in support of ALS awareness. ALS, also known as Lou Gehrig’s disease, is a progressive neurodegenerative disease. They also said they would donate to the ALS Association.

“There’s no Title IX coordinator and that’s been since November. That’s bad. You can’t move forward if you don’t have someone in the position.”

5. MAYA WEINSTEIN, director of policy and outreach for Students Against Sexual Assault, on GW’s vacant deputy Title IX coordinator position.

Wednesday, Aug. 27

Campus can be an intimidating time for incoming freshmen. We asked the GW community for their advice.

Monday, Aug. 25

ERICA CHRISTIAN | PHOTO EDITOR
Alexandria, Va. residents Jake Akins, Mim English, Chris Armstrong, Olivia Trope Boyle, Alice English and Brent Boyle pour buckets of ice water over their heads to complete the Ice Bucket Challenge in support of ALS awareness. ALS, also known as Lou Gehrig’s disease, is a progressive neurodegenerative disease. They also said they would donate to the ALS Association.

“There’s no Title IX coordinator and that’s been since November. That’s bad. You can’t move forward if you don’t have someone in the position.”

5. MAYA WEINSTEIN, director of policy and outreach for Students Against Sexual Assault, on GW’s vacant deputy Title IX coordinator position.

Wednesday, Aug. 27

Campus can be an intimidating time for incoming freshmen. We asked the GW community for their advice.
of hands-on experience be-clinic or earning another type that will require law students passed a reform this month expects more students to ap-GW Law School students to action standards.
ics – a rise stemming from pro bono clinics could see application surge
The ABA, the law volumes tend to students who earn their place friend, “Write me in,” and saw one graduate sena-der said. “I said to some asked a few friends to write in his name.
úmeros from write-in votes tend to that they are uninterested in serving.
Over the past decade, graduate in University releases, such high-profile issues, more and have said that the creation
The University was

2100 Penn. restaurants plan for September exodus
The University is forcing out popular restaurants Mehran and Thai Place also opened a new

Elizabeth Field, a spokes-

the requirement.

most of them.

Professor Jeffman.

the re-

The school has also spent

Jeffman.

The re-

SA senator vacancies highlight student disinterest

Pro bono clinics could see application surge

The experience of having a client, often for the first time, brings that sense of

Jeffrey Gutmans

Director of GW Law School’s Public Justice Advocacy Clinic

Jeffrey Gutmans, who directs the law school’s Public Justice Advocacy Clinic, said pro bono clinics give students practical experience before graduating.

The reform, None of the students' experience is

also said that students

students recommend

Both clinics have

The clinics each focus on

the clients.

The clinics both

What

She added that

the clinics.

The clinics have

students

the clients.

She added that

the situations.

The clinics focus on

students

the situations.

The clients

the clients.

the clients.

SA senator vacancies highlight student disinterest

Allison Kowalski

news editor

Scott Spector launched a

SA's 11 legal clinics, which of- fers

the clinics.

Professors say most students

while they still have the clinics.

Professors say most students

the clinics.

The clinics focus on

students

the situations.

The clients

the clients.

the clients.

the situations.

The clients

the clients.

The clinics focus on

students

the situations.

The clients

the clients.

the clients.

the clinics.

The reform, None of the

students' experience is

also said that students

students recommend

Both clinics have

The clinics each focus on

the clients.

The clinics both

What

She added that

the clinics.

The clinics have

students

the practical experience before graduating.

The reform, None of the

students' experience is

also said that students

students recommend

Both clinics have

The clinics each focus on

the clients.

The clinics both

What

She added that

the clinics.

The clinics have

students

the practical experience before graduating.

The reform, None of the

students' experience is

also said that students

students recommend

Both clinics have

The clinics each focus on

the clients.

The clinics both

What

She added that

the clinics.

The clinics have

students

the practical experience before graduating.

The reform, None of the

students' experience is

also said that students

students recommend

Both clinics have

The clinics each focus on

the clients.

The clinics both

What

She added that

the clinics.

The clinics have

students
Opinions

GW shops around

Opinions Editor*

Mary Ellen McIntire, news editor
Chloé Sorvino, opinions writer
Justin Peligri, editor in chief Diana Marinaccio, arts and theater editor
Emily Holland, design assistant Sean Hurd, sports editor*
Colleen Murphy, opinions editor*

STAFF EDITORIAL

Corcoran merger promises bright future for GW's status

It was thought you were attending a school that prioritizes political science and international affairs. But again, you were wrong.

An opportunity for Knapp to demonstrate compassion

There’s no denying GW has a rich reputation. When many of the university’s alumni think of GW, they think of the D.C. neighborhoods that GW – the University, pride, either. That’s because I have no assurance that GW – the University, the city, or the government – will handle sexual assault cases in the way that is warranted by the students affected.

Landing on Knapp’s priority list

Knapp must condemn sexual assault on campus

If you thought you were attending a school that prioritizes political science and international affairs, you were wrong.

Opinion: Tax doesn’t always outweigh cost

Every day, I think about what will happen if I don’t tell. In the midst of it all, I realize that I’m not the only one who suffers from sexual assault.

Landing on Knapp’s priority list

Knapp must condemn sexual assault on campus

If you thought you were attending a school that prioritizes political science and international affairs, you were wrong.

Opinion: Tax doesn’t always outweigh cost

Every day, I think about what will happen if I don’t tell. In the midst of it all, I realize that I’m not the only one who suffers from sexual assault.

An opportunity for Knapp to demonstrate compassion

There’s no denying GW has a rich reputation. When many of the university’s alumni think of GW, they think of the D.C. neighborhoods that GW – the University, pride, either. That’s because I have no assurance that GW – the University, the city, or the government – will handle sexual assault cases in the way that is warranted by the students affected.

Landing on Knapp’s priority list

Knapp must condemn sexual assault on campus

If you thought you were attending a school that prioritizes political science and international affairs, you were wrong.

Opinion: Tax doesn’t always outweigh cost

Every day, I think about what will happen if I don’t tell. In the midst of it all, I realize that I’m not the only one who suffers from sexual assault.
Officials look to University namesake to form student ties

An open letter to University namesake to form student ties

Consultant bridges gap in sexual assault office

Bonus pool could shrug to ease health care costs

GW standardizes punishments for off-campus noise, trash violations
Students taking a walk to the National Mall have been in- volved with Gilbert Stuart’s famous portrait of George Washington, which watches over the city from a 9th Street walk- way between 9th and 10th streets. On any given day, 27 other iconic American works on public display...
Volleyball shows confidence as new season approaches

SEAN HURD
SPORTS EDITOR

And so, the GW volleyball team spent most of last season on the sidelines, suffering from injuries. GW is looking to hit the ground running with a core of experienced players and a more mature squad with more experience.

Struggling through a 1-10 start last year, the Colonials were tasked with quickly building team chemistry and acclimating seven talented but inexperienced newcomers to collegiate gameplay. GW managed to turn the season around at the start of conference play, making it to the second round of the Atlantic 10 tournament and finishing 1-4 overall (10-4 in A-10), which earned them a first conference tournament appearance since 2011, and their first win in the tournament since 2008.

Unlike last season, head coach Amanda Ault can breathe a bit easier this season, knowing she will return with the team’s top two hitters, senior Kelsey Newman and sophomore Chidima Osuchukwu, sophomore setter Emily Clements, junior setter Jordan Timmer and junior libero Maddy Doyle. Along with four other returning starters, GW will be looking to three experienced returners, GW will also add four freshmen and junior libero Maddy Doyle. Along with four other returning starters, GW will be looking to three experienced returners, GW will also add four freshmen.

“I’m seeing a lot of potential from our incoming freshmen,” Ault said. “I love this group,” Ault said. “I think we’re in a good spot, we just need to keep moving forward.”

AMANDA AULT
Head Coach

During the annual half and half scrimmage this Satur- day, when Ault ran her team through a half, coaches switched stations after every point. Assistant coach said she likes what she saw, but that the next four weeks, but the team will need to keep moving forward.

Novemov, who led the Colonials last season with a .293 average, echoed Newman, adding that the team also looks more comfortable in its knowl- edge of the game. "I think that, in general, the team chemistry is already there. But GW still has some fundamental work to do before its season opener Fri- day against Arkansas State.

While the Colonials were able to put up their opponents in many areas of the game last season, by the end of the year, GW had committed 96 more errors than its opponents. Now, they also have sev- eral holes to fill.

GW will be without two of last season’s top servers, Maggie Skjelbred, a former All-American, and Maggie Skjelbred, a former All-American.

The story of the 2014 men’s soccer season really began last November, when a single loss kept the Colonials out of the postseason. By 1-1-1 record through ex-

Newman, who led the Colonials last season with a .293 average, echoed Newman, adding that the team also looks more comfortable in its knowl- edge of the game. "I think that, in general, the team chemistry is already there. But GW still has some fundamental work to do before its season opener Fri- day against Arkansas State.

While the Colonials were able to put up their opponents in many areas of the game last season, by the end of the year, GW had committed 96 more errors than its opponents. Now, they also have several holes to fill.

GW will be without two of last season’s top servers, Maggie Skjelbred, a former All-American, and Maggie Skjelbred, a former All-American.

The story of the 2014 men’s soccer season really began last November, when a single loss kept the Colonials out of the postseason. By 1-1-1 record through ex-

Newman, who led the Colonials last season with a .293 average, echoed Newman, adding that the team also looks more comfortable in its knowl- edge of the game. "I think that, in general, the team chemistry is already there. But GW still has some fundamental work to do before its season opener Fri- day against Arkansas State.

While the Colonials were able to put up their opponents in many areas of the game last season, by the end of the year, GW had committed 96 more errors than its opponents. Now, they also have several holes to fill.

GW will be without two of last season’s top servers, Maggie Skjelbred, a former All-American, and Maggie Skjelbred, a former All-American.

The story of the 2014 men’s soccer season really began last November, when a single loss kept the Colonials out of the postseason. By 1-1-1 record through ex-

Newman, who led the Colonials last season with a .293 average, echoed Newman, adding that the team also looks more comfortable in its knowl- edge of the game. "I think that, in general, the team chemistry is already there. But GW still has some fundamental work to do before its season opener Fri- day against Arkansas State.

While the Colonials were able to put up their opponents in many areas of the game last season, by the end of the year, GW had committed 96 more errors than its opponents. Now, they also have several holes to fill.

GW will be without two of last season’s top servers, Maggie Skjelbred, a former All-American, and Maggie Skjelbred, a former All-American.

The story of the 2014 men’s soccer season really began last November, when a single loss kept the Colonials out of the postseason. By 1-1-1 record through ex-

Newman, who led the Colonials last season with a .293 average, echoed Newman, adding that the team also looks more comfortable in its knowl- edge of the game. "I think that, in general, the team chemistry is already there. But GW still has some fundamental work to do before its season opener Fri- day against Arkansas State.

While the Colonials were able to put up their opponents in many areas of the game last season, by the end of the year, GW had committed 96 more errors than its opponents. Now, they also have several holes to fill.

GW will be without two of last season’s top servers, Maggie Skjelbred, a former All-American, and Maggie Skjelbred, a former All-American.